Ann Jensen Adams

Dr. Ann Jensen Adams is professor of the History of Art and Architecture at UC Santa Barbara, and is an affiliated member of the Department of History and Art History at Utrecht University, The Netherlands. She was previously on the faculty of the University of Chicago 1986-1993. Dr. Adams received her Ph.D. in Fine Arts from Harvard University in 1985. Her approaches to her field of 17th-century Dutch art and visual culture has been shaped in part by her undergraduate degree from Harvard-Radcliffe College in Government (1971), and several years as a practicing artist designing and constructing stained glass windows.

Dr. Adams has served on the board of directors of the Smart Art Museum University of Chicago, College Art Association Committee on Electronic Information, Getty Research Portal™, the board of directors of the Historians of Netherlandish Art, faculty editorial board of the University of California Press, Executive Council of the University Senate, and University of California System-wide Faculty Senate, advisory board of UC Santa Barbara’s Interdisciplinary Humanities Institute, and chair of UC Santa Barbara’s Council on Planning and Budget. She was appointed a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2015 and currently serves on the finance committee.

David G. Adishian ’89

Mr. Adishian is a financial advisor and the practice leader of The Adishian Group within Merrill Lynch Wealth Management. For over 20 years, he has advised affluent executives, families and charitable organizations on strategies to protect and grow their wealth. Their mission is to simplify their client’s financial lives and make them more secure by delivering a transparent asset management experience. Mr. Adishian has been a featured financial commentator on radio and television as well as numerous legal and news publications.

Mr. Adishian graduated with Omicron Delta Epsilon honors from the University of California, Santa Barbara with a degree in business economics and received his Juris Doctor from Pepperdine University School of Law where he was a Margaret Brock Scholar. He holds the chartered Retirement Planning Counselor (CRPC®) designation and is a member of the State Bar of California.

Alongside a special commitment to his clients, Mr. Adishian is civically active with organizations on education, foreign affairs, domestic policy, and his childhood passion of automobiles, including: board of directors, Manhattan Beach Education Foundation; board of directors, Los Angeles World Affairs Council; executive committee, CF200 Petersen Museum; member, Pacific Council on International Policy; member, chairman-level, Friend of the Reagan Foundation at The Ronald Reagan Presidential Foundation; and member, New Majority Los Angeles.

Mr. Adishian grew up in Palos Verdes Estates and is a graduate of Palos Verdes High School. He and his wife, Lena, are residents of Manhattan Beach where their children attend public schools. Mr. Adishian has served as a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation since 2003.
Janet A. Alpert ‘68

Ms. Alpert is the retired vice chair of LandAmerica Financial Group, Inc. She was president for eleven years and retired in 2004 after 35 years with the company.

A graduate of UC Santa Barbara in 1968, Ms. Alpert holds a B.A. degree, majoring in political science. In 1978 she obtained an MBA from the University of Connecticut.

While residing in Richmond, Virginia for twenty-six years, Ms. Alpert served on the boards of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce, The Virginia Foundation for Women and the Richmond Metro advisory board for SunTrust Bank. She was a trustee for TIPAC, the political action committee of the American Land Title Association and was a frequent speaker at American Land Title conferences. She also served on the University of Connecticut Foundation Board from 1997-2003.

Ms. Alpert is an avid genealogist and former president of the National Genealogical Society, a position she held from 2006-2010.

Ms. Alpert and her husband, Cal Beltman, live seasonally in Holland, Michigan and Hilton Head Island, South Carolina. Ms. Alpert became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2008.

Sarah Argyropoulos

Ms. Argyropoulos is a long time resident of Santa Barbara, and has been active in various educational and non-profit organizations. She has served as a board member of the Santa Barbara Museum of Art and C-FIT: Center for Cognitive Fitness and Innovative Therapies.

Her passion for our ocean runs deep, which led her to the National Geographic Society where she continues to serve on their International Council of Advisors and focus on the “Pristine Seas” initiative.

Diving and research expeditions regularly take her to the far corners of the globe. Inspired by the connection between oceans and cultures, she became significantly engaged with the marine sciences at UC Santa Barbara and worked on behalf of outreach education.

Ms. Argyropoulos also serves as a senior advisor for the Sustainable Aquaculture Research Center (SARC), housed at UCSB. SARC is helping to advance ecosystem-based management through solution-oriented science focused on the socio-ecological impacts and implications of marine aquaculture. In addition, she has established the Sarah Argyropoulos Marine Conservation Fellowship to support and train the next generation of marine conservation scientists. Ms. Argyropoulos has served as a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation since 2004.
John P. Arnhold ’75

Mr. Arnhold is a director of First Eagle Holdings, Inc. He is also a trustee of the First Eagle Funds.

Mr. Arnhold began his career in 1975 in the credit training program at Chase Manhattan Bank. From there, he joined Chase’s Corporate Lending and then Merchant Banking Groups. In 1981, he joined Lehman Brothers Kuhn Loeb’s merger arbitrage department. Two years later, John joined First Eagle where he launched its Merger Arbitrage business. In 1988, he was appointed co-director of First Eagle’s institutional securities business. In 1994, John became co-chief executive officer of the firm and, in 2002, he assumed full responsibility as CEO. He served in this capacity until February 2010, when he assumed the title of chief investment officer, which he held until 2016.

In addition to his roles at First Eagle and its affiliates, Mr. Arnhold is a director of Arnhold Ceramics, the Arnhold Foundation and the Mulago Foundation. John is a trustee and member of the investment committee at Trinity Episcopal Schools Corporation, where he was a past president. He is the chairman of the International Tennis Hall of Fame, and he is a board member and chair of the investment committee at Jazz at Lincoln Center. He is also a member of the board of WNET, where he chairs the programming committee.

Mr. Arnhold received his B.A. from UC Santa Barbara. He and his wife, Jody, have two children, reside in New York City, and are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. Mr. Arnhold became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2012. He currently serves as vice chair, investments and finance committees and treasurer of the Foundation.

Richard A. Auhll

Mr. Auhll founded Circon Corporation and served 30 years as chairman of the board of directors, president, and chief executive officer. Under his direction, Circon became the largest U.S. producer of medical endoscopes and color video systems for minimally invasive surgery. Mr. Auhll received the Master Entrepreneur of the Year Award from the Institute of American Entrepreneurs.

Trained as an aerospace engineer, Mr. Auhll has a B.S. degree in engineering from the University of Michigan, an M.S. degree in engineering from Stanford University, and an MBA degree from Harvard University.

Mr. Auhll has been president and chairman of the board of Surgical Eye Expeditions (SEE) International. He is past chairman of the board of Seton School for Developmentally Disabled Children.

He established the Richard A. Auhll Professor and Dean of Engineering Chair, is benefactor of the Richard A. Auhll Engineering Student Center, and lectures on entrepreneurship in UC Santa Barbara economics courses. He is also a member of the UCSB Gold Circle. Mr. Auhll serves as a member of the UC Santa Barbara College of Engineering Dean’s Cabinet and has been a member of the President’s Engineering Advisory Council for all campuses of the University of California system. He is a member of the University of Michigan College of Engineering National Advisory Committee.

Mr. Auhll is an instrument-rated, jet aircraft solo pilot. He became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 1994, and served as chairman of the Foundation in 1999-2000.
Robert D. Ballard ’65

Dr. Ballard received a B.A. in physical sciences with majors in chemistry and geology and minors in mathematics and physics from UC Santa Barbara in 1965. He is currently a deep-sea explorer and oceanographer, as well as a professor of oceanography and the Director of the Center for Ocean Exploration at the University of Rhode Island. He is also President of the Ocean Exploration Trust that owns and operates the E/V Nautilus.

He is best known for discovering the wreck of the RMS Titanic, the German battleship Bismarck, and John F. Kennedy’s PT-109. He has conducted more than 150 deep-sea expeditions using state-of-the-art technology and was the Co-Chief Scientist of the expedition that discovered the first hydrothermal vents and their unique chemosynthetic ecosystem that many believe is where life originated on planet Earth.

Previously, Dr. Ballard served thirty years in the U.S. Navy. Recently, the Command Center for Bob’s Exploration Vessel Nautilus went live at OCTOS at UC Santa Barbara and will electronically link K-12 schools on the Central Coast as well as UCSB graduates and undergraduates to the research and science that is taking place aboard the E/V Nautilus. Dr. Ballard is committed to educating people about science and founded JASON Learning, a nonprofit organization that connects students, in the classroom and out, to real science and exploration to inspire and motivate them to study and pursue careers in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM).

Dr. Ballard is also an “Explorer-in-Residence” at the National Geographic Society. He resides in Connecticut with wife, Barbara. Dr. Ballard was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2014.

Laurie Bentson Kauth ’69

Mrs. Bentson Kauth graduated from UC Santa Barbara with a B.A. in psychology in 1969. She is the current president of the Bentson Foundation and daughter of founders Larry and Nancy Bentson, both deceased. Since 1956, the Bentson Foundation has supported a diverse array of charitable causes in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Santa Barbara, New York, and various other cities.

In 2014, a generous gift from the Bentson Foundation established the Bentson Scholars Program at UC Santa Barbara, a merit-based initiative for undergraduates with an interest in aquatic biology. This program is modeled after scholarship programs at University of Minnesota and New York University. There are over 1,000 Bentson Scholars at this time at these three universities. The Bentson Foundation also supports Arts & Lectures as well as Student Affairs at UC Santa Barbara.

In 2015, Mrs. Bentson Kauth was named a board member of the Lobero Theatre Foundation. She has supported several local arts causes, including the Santa Barbara International Film Festival/ Mike’s Field Trip to the Movies, the Notes for Notes program through the Santa Barbara Bowl, and the Lobero Theatre’s Sings Like Hell program. She also serves on the Dean’s Advisory Council for the College of Arts and Sciences at NYU.

Mrs. Bentson Kauth resides in Santa Barbara with her husband, William Kauth, who graduated from UC Santa Barbara in 1978 and is a former Marine Biology teacher at Santa Barbara High School. Their daughter, Kim Bentson Kauth, is currently a law student at Tulane University in New Orleans. Mrs. Bentson Kauth became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2016.
Mr. Bergman opened a record store called Record Bar in Chapel Hill, NC in 1963, following his studies at Duke University. Through Mr. Bergman’s leadership, Record Bar grew to a national chain of 180 stores in 30 states. Shortly after selling Record Bar in 1989, Mr. Bergman and partner, John Hansen, purchased bankrupt Bare Escentuals, a four-store skin care company. Twenty-four stores later, with a constant presence on QVC, Bare Escentuals was recapitalized in 2004 for over $200 million.

Through his consulting business, Mr. Bergman presently mentors young entrepreneurs. Now a popular speaker and advisor, he is a frequent guest speaker at UC Santa Barbara and Santa Barbara City College.

Adhering to strong ethical principles is key to Mr. Bergman’s philosophy for success. His book, “Nice Guys Finish First,” shares his strong leadership skills and insights on how to create an environment where ideas are encouraged, employees are motivated, and ethical behavior is the norm. He became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2012.

Mr. Bertelsen, a past chair of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation, is a senior partner of the law firm of Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati in Palo Alto. From 1991-1996, he served as managing partner of the firm. Mr. Bertelsen specializes in corporate law, securities, and mergers and acquisitions.

The firm is one of the country’s leading law firms representing emerging growth companies in technology and life sciences.

Mr. Bertelsen graduated with a bachelor’s degree in political science from UC Santa Barbara in 1966, and a J.D. from Boalt Hall School of Law, University of California, Berkeley in 1969. He has served on numerous boards of directors of public and private companies.

Mr. Bertelsen and his wife, Susan, a UC Santa Barbara alumna, reside in Palo Alto. The Bertelsens, among many gifts, established the Eugene Aas Chair in Computer Science and the Bertelsen Presidential Chair in Technology and Society at UCSB and are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. Mr. Bertelsen became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 1994 and served as chair from 2001-2003. Additionally, he has served in various capacities on the board, most recently as vice chair of the development committee from 2013-2015. The Bertelsens are life members of the UCSB Alumni Association. Mr. Bertelsen serves as a member of the UC Santa Barbara College of Engineering Dean’s Cabinet and also served as a member of the Trustee Advisory Committee on Isla Vista Strategies, 2014.

Mr. Gluck joined McKinsey & Co. in 1967 and led the firm as its elected managing partner from 1988 to 1994. He retired from McKinsey in 1995 and joined The Bechtel Group where he served as vice-chairman and director. He rejoined McKinsey in 1998 and served as a consultant to the firm until 2004. Mr. Gluck earned a BSEE from Manhattan College in 1957 and an MSEE from New York University in 1999. He started his career at the Bell Telephone Laboratories (1957-1967) and was the program manager for the Spartan anti-ICBM missile system at the time of his departure.

In 2006 Mr. Gluck co-founded CytomX, a biotechnology company based on technologies licensed from UCSB. He served as chairman and CEO during the initial two years of product development and market definition. CytomX (NASDAQ), now based in San Francisco, is developing families of highly targeted therapeutics for the treatment of cancer. Mr. Gluck continues as a director of the company. In 1988, CytomX spun off Cynvenio, a cancer diagnostics company focused on transforming cancer treatment and management through the molecular analysis of cancer biomarkers in blood. Mr. Gluck continues as chairman of Cynvenio now based in Westlake Village. Mr. Gluck is also co-chairman of TrueVision Systems based in Goleta. Truevision is a world leader in computer-guided surgery.

Mr. Gluck serves as a director for a number of eleemosynary organizations, including New York Presbyterian Hospital (Emeritus) and the Safe Water Network (New York). He has also served as a director of Amgen (NASDAQ) and as the presiding director of HCA (Hospital Corporation of America) (NYSE) and as trustee of the Cottage Hospital System.

Mr. Gluck co-founded (with David Gross) the advisory council of The Kavli Institute of Theoretical Physics and served as its initial chairman. He and his wife, Linda, also established the Frederick W. Gluck Chair for the director of the Institute. The Glucks are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. Mr. Gluck was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 1999.

Ambassador Grossman served as the Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs, the State Department’s third ranking official, until his retirement in 2005 after 29 years in the U.S. Foreign Service. As Under Secretary, he helped marshal diplomatic support for the international response to the attacks of September 11, 2001. He also managed U.S. policies in the Balkans and Colombia and promoted a key expansion of the NATO alliance. As Assistant Secretary for European Affairs, he helped direct NATO’s military campaign in Kosovo and an earlier round of NATO expansion. In Turkey, Ambassador Grossman encouraged vibrant U.S.-Turkish economic relations. Ambassador Grossman was vice chairman of The Cohen Group from July 2005 to February 2011.

In February, 2011 President Obama and Secretary of State Clinton called Ambassador Grossman back to service as the U.S. Special Representative for Afghanistan and Pakistan. Ambassador Grossman promoted the international effort to support Afghanistan by shaping major international meetings in Istanbul, Bonn, Chicago, and Tokyo. He provided U.S. backing for an Afghan peace process designed to end thirty years of conflict and played an important part in restoring U.S. ties with Pakistan. He returned to The Cohen Group in 2013.

Ambassador Grossman is chairman of the board of the Senior Living Foundation of the Foreign Service and a trustee of the German Marshall Fund of the United States.

Born in Los Angeles, California and raised in La Habra, Ambassador Grossman received his B.A. in Political Science from the University of California, Santa Barbara in 1973 and a M.Sc. in International Relations from the London School of Economics and Political Science in 1974. The UC Santa Barbara Alumni Association awarded Ambassador Grossman the Distinguished Alumni Award in December 2001. Ambassador Grossman resides in Arlington, Virginia with his wife, Mildred. He was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2014 and currently serves on the executive committee.
Mr. John “Gus” Gurley co-founded the local high-tech company, Digital Instruments (DI) in 1987, along with Virgil Elings, former UCSB Physics Professor. DI pioneered scanning probe microscopy with a simple goal - to make the power of scanning probe microscopy readily available to scientists and engineers, enabling them to image and explore nanoscale features and structures never seen before. That same year, they constructed the first commercially successful scanning tunneling microscope, shipping the first NanoScope units. He designed the NanoScope and led the NanoScope software development. He managed new product development at DI and is one of the world’s leading authorities on scanning probe control systems. Prior to DI, he designed flight simulators for Link flight Simulation.

DI received several awards for business and engineering excellence, including 3 Photonics Circle of Excellence awards; local, state and national new product awards from the Society of Professional engineers. In 1998, Digital Instruments officially merged with Veeco Instruments, a leading supplier of instrumentation for the research, semiconductor, data storage, telecommunications, and other industries. By combining the technological strengths of each company, the newly formed company added the distinction of being the world leader in 3-D surface metrology.

Since retiring from Digital Instruments/Veeco, Mr. Gurley has been exploring his interest in systems level neuroscience and neural networking. He hopes to develop a neural simulator and has been working on the software that would support this digital based device.

Mr. Gurley has a B.S. degree in Physics from the University of California at Santa Barbara and a M.S., Physics, Scientific Instrumentation. He received the Alumni Association Distinguished Alumni Award in 2012 and the College of Creative Studies (CCS) Notable Alumni Award in 2015. He and his wife, Meg, established the Susan F. Gurley Chair in Theoretical Physics and Biology at KITP. They are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. Mr. Gurley is also a member of the KITP Director’s Council. He was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2017.

Mr. John A. Gurley ’78, ’83

Mr. Habermann is president of Scobrett Associates, a venture capital and consulting firm. Mr. Habermann was formerly president and CEO of The Restaurant Enterprises Group, Inc., an Irvine, California-based company that owned and operated over 1,000 restaurants and was one of California’s largest privately held corporations, with sales in excess of $1.2 billion. The company was sold in 1994.

Before forming The Restaurant Enterprises Group, Mr. Habermann spent 20 years as an executive in the restaurant business. He was chief operating officer of H. Salt Fish and Chips (which was sold to Kentucky Fried Chicken in 1969); executive vice president, Kentucky Fried Chicken; president and chief operating officer of Collins Foods International and Denny’s; and then president and CEO of Carrows Restaurants, Inc. In 1998, he joined the board of Fine Host Corporation, an institutional food service provider to stadiums, arenas, and other large venues and, shortly thereafter, was appointed chairman and CEO until the corporation was sold a number of years later. He currently serves on a number of civic boards and committees. At UCSB, he taught a marketing strategy course for a number of years and remains active in mentoring students in entrepreneurial and enterprise management.

Mr. Habermann received a B.A. from Rutgers University in 1955 and an MBA from Golden Gate College in 1967. Prior to entering the business world, he served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy.

Mr. Habermann and his wife, Jane, reside in Santa Barbara. Mr. Habermann has been a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation since 1986 and served as chair from 1996-1997.

Norman N. Habermann

Mr. Habermann has been a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation since 1986 and served as chair from 1996-1997.
Roy C. Hardiman ’81, ’83

Mr. Hardiman received his B.A. from UC Santa Barbara in pharmacology in 1981, his M.A. in biology (emphasis in biochemistry & molecular biology) in 1983, and his J.D. from UCLA School of Law. Mr. Hardiman is chief business officer of Principia Biopharma of South San Francisco, a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company focused on discovering and developing innovative small-molecule drugs for the treatment of cancer and immune mediated diseases. He is part owner of a high-end grocer and restaurant, Woodlands Market and Café, in Kentfield and Tiburon, CA. Roy also is on the board of directors of ReAllocate, a non-profit focused on bringing engineering and science solutions to third world issues.

Mr. Hardiman spent almost two decades at the biotechnology company, Genentech, Inc. While at Genentech, he served in roles that included vice president of alliance management, vice president of corporate law, head of environmental health and safety, and director and Far East representative, business development. Prior to joining Genentech, he was an associate with the Morrison & Foerster law firm.

Mr. Hardiman and his wife, Janet, have been supporters of the Sciences, Pharmacology and Molecular Biology, the College of Engineering, and Bio-engineering, at UC Santa Barbara. The Hardimans reside in Mill Valley, CA. Mr. Hardiman serves as a member of the Dean’s Cabinet for the Division of Science at UC Santa Barbara and was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2012.

Eva Haller

Mrs. Haller is a social, educational, and environmental activist and philanthropist in the United States and across the globe. She works actively along with her husband, Yoel, to promote peace and social policies that effectively deal with today’s global challenges. She is currently a member of the Synergos Global Philanthropist Circle, participating in a community of international philanthropists using their time, influence, and resources to fight poverty and social injustice. For over 17 years, Eva served as board chair of Free the Children USA, an organization dedicated to education and empowering communities to break the cycle of poverty throughout the world. She currently serves on the board of Sing for Hope, which celebrates NYC by placing 88 pianos on the streets. She is also on the board of Video Volunteers, serving India’s untouchables; Asia Initiative, funding communities to fund themselves; and A Blade of Grass, promoting socially engaged art. She also serves on the Rubin Museum of Asian Art and the News Literacy Project boards.

In 2015, she was appointed to the Advisory of the Prince’s Charities, the Canadian charitable office of HRH the Prince of Wales. Her extensive board work has also included the Jane Goodall Institute, and Women for Women International. She is a recipient of the Mandela Award for Humanitarian Achievement, the Inaugural Mentoring Award at Forbes Women’s Summit, and a Lifetime Achievement Award at the United Nations Population Fund. In 2014, she was a visiting professor at Glasgow Caledonian University, where she received an honorary doctorate and was awarded the Magnusson Fellowship.

Mrs. Haller is an advocate of the arts and hopes to establish a sculpture garden at UC Santa Barbara. She was elected as a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 1985.
Beginning his campus involvement with the UC Santa Barbara Affiliates in 1987, Mr. Harriman and his wife (now deceased) endowed the Harriman Chair in Neuroscience Research for the Neuroscience Research Institute (NRI) director, the first for an organized research unit at UC Santa Barbara. Mr. Harriman serves on the NRI advisory committee.

A native of Buffalo, New York, he holds an A.B. from Dartmouth and a M.S. from MIT. Mr. Harriman worked in helicopters, guided missiles, and electronics — early use of microcircuits in a USAF structures monitor, telecom network management, and high-resolution color monitors. He served as senior technical officer and V.P. marketing and development of a New York Stock Exchange listed company for 29 years.

He served for nine years as treasurer of Santa Barbara’s resident professional theater company, Ensemble Theatre, and of Hope Ranch Homeowner’s Association for many terms. He was founding chair of the board of the Center for Cognitive Fitness and Innovative Therapies (CFIT), a community initiative providing integrated evaluation and treatment of mild cognitive impairment, later reorganized and operated by Cottage Hospital as the Cottage Center for Brain Fitness, as an outpatient clinic.

Although successful in improving neuropsychological assessment of two-thirds of the clients, it was discontinued. Conventional medicine saw the results as producing only a reduction in risk factor rather than a cure.

Since what’s needed is clinical protocols for finer resolution of brain imaging and for growing neurons to replace impaired ones, UC Santa Barbara has undertaken the Dynamic Brain Initiative to perform the research required.

Mr. Harriman is a member of the UCSB Gold Circle. His sons earned J.D.s from UC Davis and UC Berkeley’s Boalt School of Law. He was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 1999.

Mr. Haughton is the retired chairman of the board and chief executive officer of The PMI Group, Inc. A graduate of UC Santa Barbara, Mr. Haughton holds a B.A. in economics. He is a former chairman of Social Compact, a Washington D.C. organization dedicated to promoting revitalization of America’s inner cities. He has previously served on the executive committee and board of San Francisco’s Bay Area Council, a business-sponsored, CEO led, public policy organization representing employers dedicated to promoting economic prosperity and quality of life in the region.

Mr. Haughton has been very active in the support of several non-profit organizations, including Habitat for Humanity, and has served on its international board of directors. He currently serves as a director on the executive advisory committee for the Habitat for Humanity affiliate in Tuolumne County, California. He was a director for Tony La Russa’s Animal Rescue Foundation (ARF) and has served as an advisor to the Monument Crisis Center in Concord, California. He currently serves as VP, Director for a newly formed regional park organization in Tuolumne County, California.

Mr. Haughton and his wife, Judy, also a UC Santa Barbara graduate, are life members of the UCSB Alumni Association. The Haughtons are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. Mr. Haughton became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2001.
Mr. Henke is an American entrepreneur, businessman, and technical advisor. He served as the Senior Vice President (SVP) of Engineering and Operations for LinkedIn, a professional social networking website, from 2009 to 2013. He currently serves on the advisory boards for Elementum SCM, a supply chain management in the cloud startup; financial technology startup, NerdWallet; and two early stage startups, Avid Secure and SignifAI. He previously served on the board of Turn (acquired by Singtel), and is currently on the board of Sean Parker’s political advocacy startup, Brigade Media.

Mr. Henke joined LinkedIn in November, 2009. He ran all of technology for over two years and during the company’s IPO. He then shifted to run product operations, IT, security and systems for the remaining two years. Prior to LinkedIn, Henke was the SVP of Engineering and Operations at Yahoo for over 4 years. He led a team of 500 engineers in Panama advertising systems to overhaul the company’s search marketing platform. He ran Engineering and Operations at AltaVista, an internet search engine company, from 1998 to 2002. He has worked at Silicon Graphics, Hewlett Packard and co-founded two successful startups, CAE Systems (acquired by Tektronix) and TeamOne systems (acquired by Computer Associates).

Although his LinkedIn profile states that he is “retired,” Mr. Henke is an active board member for startups and education. He is also an active contributor to his five favorite philanthropic categories: education, cancer research, stroke research, the foster systems (CASA), and immigration reform.

Mr. Henke holds a B.A. in Mathematics from the University of California, Santa Barbara, class of 1978, graduating with highest honors. He serves on the UC Santa Barbara College of Engineering Dean’s Cabinet and was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2017.

Mr. Holbrook, Jr. received a B.S. in mechanical engineering from Cornell University in 1953. He is currently the managing partner at Bradley Resources Company, a private investment and venture capital firm. Mr. Holbrook’s family has been associated with the company since 1860.

He is a member of UC Santa Barbara’s Institute of Energy Efficiency director’s council and was awarded the Engineering Exemplary Service Award in 2012 by the College of Engineering. Mr. Holbrook is also on the board of directors for ThinGap, a motor manufacturer. He is president of the George W. Holbrook Jr. Foundation Inc. The Holbrooks have been leadership supporters to UCSB’s College of Engineering.

Mr. Holbrook resides in Santa Barbara with his wife, Tara, and together they are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. He became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2014. He currently serves on the investment committee.
Judith L. Hopkinson

Ms. Hopkinson is a Regent Emeritus, appointed to the University of California Board of Regents by Governor Gray Davis in 1999. She chaired the compensation, finance, investment, and grounds and buildings committees.

She was chief operating officer of Ameriquest Capital Corporation, a national financial services company with 4,000 employees and offices throughout the United States prior to her retirement in late 1999.

Ms. Hopkinson is past president and current member of the board of the Community Arts Music Association of Santa Barbara, a past board member of Cottage Health Systems, and a past board member of the Santa Barbara Museum of Art, and the Ensemble Theatre Company. She is a current member of the Human Rights Watch Santa Barbara Committee.

From 1982 through 1987, Ms. Hopkinson served on the California Transportation Commission as a member, vice chairman, and chairman. She was also a founding board member of the California Association for Local Economic Development, served on the California State Bar Client Security Fund, was a member of the Senate Housing Authority Task Force, and was a member and vice chair of the Los Angeles County Board of the Rail Construction Company.

Ms. Hopkinson is a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley, where she received her bachelor of architecture degree. Ms. Hopkinson resides in Santa Barbara and became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2000. She served as a member of the Trustee Advisory Committee on Isla Vista Strategies in 2014.

M. Blair Hull ’65

Mr. Hull founded Hull Investments, LLC in 1999. Hull Investments was created to serve as a family office for three generations of the Hull family and acts as parent company to a number of financial entities. Mr. Hull created Hull Tactical Asset Allocation, LLC in 2013. HTAA operates an actively managed ETF and utilizes advanced algorithms as well as macro and technical indicators to anticipate future market returns.

Mr. Hull is also founder of Ketchum Trading, LLC. Ketchum Trading is a privately held, proprietary trading firm, based in Chicago, Illinois that makes markets and trades futures, options, cash equities and exchange-traded funds. Prior to launching Ketchum Trading, LLC, Mr. Hull was the founder of Hull Trading Company and served as that firm’s chairman and chief executive officer.

A global leader in application of computer technology to listed derivatives trading, Hull Trading leveraged technological innovations and quantitative models to become one of the world’s premier market-making firms, trading on 28 exchanges in nine countries until sold in 1999 to Goldman Sachs.

Mr. Hull has worked in the trading industry for nearly 40 years. Worth magazine named him one of “Wall Street’s 25 Smartest Players.” In 2014, Mr. Hull was awarded the Joseph W. Sullivan Options Industry Council in recognition of his outstanding lifetime contributions to the growth and integrity of the U.S. options market.

In 1998, Mr. Hull endowed the first chair in women’s studies at UCSB in honor of the women in his family. He received a bachelor’s degree in mathematics from UCSB in 1965 and his MBA from Santa Clara University in 1969. Mr. Hull became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 1996. He currently serves on the investment committee.
Janice Jagelski ‘87

Ms. Jagelski graduated from UC Santa Barbara in 1987 with a B.A. in environmental studies. After working two extended seasons in the Alaskan fishing industry and a season hosting visitors on a Colorado guest ranch, Ms. Jagelski exercised her degree in the field of urban and environmental planning for twelve years.

More recently Ms. Jagelski and her partner, Patrick Morrin, support numerous philanthropic institutions through their private foundation. In February 2004, Ms. Jagelski and Mr. Morrin sponsored the Lester Brown Lecture at UC Santa Barbara in tribute to Barry Schuyler, her mentor in the Environmental Studies Program, and his family. Ms. Jagelski and Mr. Morrin continue to support the Schuyler Lecture Fund and Series in the Environmental Studies Program as well as programs in the Bren School and the Division of Mathematical, Life and Physical Sciences at UC Santa Barbara.

Outside of UC Santa Barbara, Ms. Jagelski and Mr. Morrin continue to support the Anderson School at UCLA, the University of San Diego, and the Grand County Historical Society Museum in Hot Sulphur Springs, Colorado, where in 1881 Ms. Jagelski’s grandmother homesteaded a ranch that her family continues to operate today.

Ms. Jagelski and Mr. Morrin have a son, Jameson. Ms. Jagelski is a life member of the UCSB Alumni Association and became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2006.

William K. Jones ’77

Mr. Jones is a fifth generation Californian who was born and raised in Pasadena, California. Both his mother, Marvel Kirby ’51, and father, George E. Jones ’49, attended UC Santa Barbara. Mr. Jones graduated from UC Santa Barbara in 1977 with a B.A. in geography.

Mr. Jones has continued the family legacy of working in the securities business. His grandfather, George E. Jones Sr., founded Mitchum, Jones & Templeton in the early 1900s, and his father started Jones & Associates in 1975. Judith Stapelmann ’63, ’65

Mrs. Stapelmann graduated from UC Santa Barbara and continued on for a master’s degree in immunology. Trained as a general biologist, she taught biology and ecology at Ventura College, Glendale College and Santa Barbara City College.

A deep concern for environmental issues led to volunteer work for Planned Parenthood beginning in the early ’80s. She has served in many capacities from clinic work to serving as president of the board. She chaired their $11.3 million “Building Healthy Communities” campaign and continues to serve on the development committee. She also continues to do fundraising, and enjoys working on Planned Parenthood’s book sale and participating in their “Choice Affairs” events. Environmental concerns have also stimulated support of the Land Trust for Santa Barbara County and San Luis Obispo Conservancy. She is proud to have negotiated the first Williamson Act contract to protect private property as wildlife habitat. She is currently working with UC Santa Barbara’s Sedgwick Reserve Endowment Committee in order to provide operational support for the reserve.

A lifelong horseback rider, she has been involved in the County Trails Council, Santa Barbara Sage Hens, Hope Ranch Riding and Trails Association, Los Padres Trail Riders, and Hollister Ranch Cattle Co-operative.

Mrs. Stapelmann is a trustee emerita of the Santa Barbara Foundation and active with the Santa Barbara Women’s Fund. She also serves on the board of the Wildling Museum, where art and nature meet.

Together with her husband, Jack, she enjoys travel, sailing, and ranch life. The Stapelmanns are members of the UCSB Gold Circle. She became a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2006.

Mrs. Webster is a retired teacher who graduated from UC Santa Barbara in 1975 with a BA in art. She and her husband, Alec, support UC Santa Barbara and UC Santa Cruz. They have made gifts to institutions and charities through their family foundation, the Helen and Will Webster Foundation.

At UCSB, the Webster Foundation has supported the crew team for nine years, primarily through the Webster Mentorship Program. This program enables team members to receive a financial offset of their club dues by providing tutoring and mentorship to local schools and youth sports programs.

Also at UCSB, Alec and Claudia created an endowment for the earth science department to acknowledge their connection to the earth science department, and most especially to honor Robert M. Norris, who taught them in the field in the 1970s. The purpose of this fund is to promote the engagement of earth science students in fieldwork and the associated development of an appreciation for the natural environment. This endowment is in process of enlarging to an endowed chair for Professor Norris, the first endowed chair in earth sciences at UC Santa Barbara.

At UC Santa Cruz, the Webster Foundation funded the restoration of the Cowell Hay Barn, a campus icon. In conjunction with the UCOP, the Websters funded chairs in the Natural Reserves, Library, Groundwater, and Science Communication. Most recently, they provided funding for the re-naming and endowing of College 8 to “Rachel Carson College.”

Claudia is devoted to the preservation of rural and agricultural communities and advocates for proper land use policy. She and Alec have three children and one lovely granddaughter. They reside in Bonny Doon, California. Mrs. Webster was elected a trustee of the UC Santa Barbara Foundation in 2016.
